A Quick Analysis of Trellich Grammar and Mechanics

1. Form the plural version of a noun.
 Add -s if the noun ends with any vowel except -i. Add -i if the noun ends with a consonant. If -i occurs at the end, add an acute mark (í).

2. Adjectives and nouns must agree in number. The only exception is when a word comes after a number. Anything after the number takes the plural form.

Example: xegenesthudo nipo zorimalí (happy seven foxes)

3. Adjectives go before nouns.

4. The syntax is subject-verb-object.

5. Use angle brackets as quotation marks (<< >>).

6. Make a noun from a regular verb.
 Drop the verb's stem and add -o. If the stem contains -o, replace with -io.

7. Make a noun from an adjective.
 Adjectives vary in some situations. Most of the time, however, drop the ending -udo. Then, add -io to the stem.

8. Denote a comparative and a superlative relationship. The words "mei" and "dakan" precede an adjective to make a comparative relationship.

Example: mei lelanudo - better, dakan lelanudo - less good

The addition of the word "nai" makes a superlative relationship.

Example: nai mei lelanudo - best

When dealing with nouns, use "ibei" and "ibei multa".

Example: Tenenat ibei multas enaos ibei yak. (I have as many games as you.)

Example: Iri ibei siku ibei posibudo. (Go as near as possible.)

9. Affirmative words include "yoxo", "nai yoxo", and "shi". You can also use negations with the words "nei", "daxi", "daximi", or "jara".

10. Denote a date as year-month-day.
E.g. 1986 Aprilon 5

11. Use all big letters to denote a title of a work.

Example: MINATRELI TREL'IWATIROS

12. The symbol trel'idema denotes a property. For example, whenever you create a story or a game, the Trellich National Council of Distribution shall include the symbol to express the author's ownership of the work.

Most Trellish words follow a distinct pattern, using special endings to denote the type of word.

METANOUNS

A metanoun is a special word that can change its structure. There are two types: regular and irregular. Regular metanouns begin with "trel".

Ideas make the root of the word.

ba,be,bi,bo,bu
cha,che,chi,cho,chu da,de,di,do,du fa,fe,fi,fo,fu
ga,ge,gi,go,gu
ja,je,ji,jo,ju
ka,ke,ki,ko,ku
la,le,li,lo,lu
ma,me,mi,mo,mu
na,ne,ni,no,nu
pa,pe,pi,po,pu
ra,re,ri,ro,ru
sa,se,si,so,su
sha,she,shi,sho,shu
ta,te,ti,to,tu
tha,the,thi,tho,thu
wa,we,wi,wo,wu
xa,xo,xi,xo,xu
ya,ye,yi,yo,yu
za,ze,zi,zo,zu

The final form ends with tra, tre, tri, tro, or tru. Regular metanouns can use any combination of ideas as long as they do not exceed two. Form the adjective by adding trel to the word.

trelchatre - funeral (trelchatretrel - funerary) treldadatre - result (treldadatretrel - resulting) trelletra - mood (trelletratrel - moody)
treltoshitre - legend (treltoshitretrel - legendary)

Irregular metanouns can change their structure.

da'trel'bu - bulk (trel'dabutrel - bulky) pu'trel'fe - sore (trel'pufetrel - sore (adj.)
fe'trel'o - mercy (trel'feotrel - merciful)

The letter trel is the basis for many words. As we saw above, you can modify radical words into adjectives. The same is also possible with other types of words.

The word minatero is dove, and when you change it into minatreljan, you have a new word: dovelight. A dovelight is an advocate of heroism and equality.

spetrular - aurora (spetrulatrel - like an aurora)
trinitio - trinity (trinititrel - of a trinity)

In the cases above, you normally remove a portion of the word's ending to form an adjective with trel. However, there are exceptions.

COMPOUNDING

Sometimes, when you want to be more descriptive, you can use compounding. Compound phrases add more meaning to words in ways that normal adjectives cannot. They modify various parts of speech to describe concepts in a different way.
